A CREENBACKER ON SILVER.

Chairman Jones of the National Committee Says it Benefits Farmers.

BONDED AND FLOATING DEBTS OF STATES.

A Special Bulletin from the Census Office Shows That Nebraska is Not Afflicted With Either of Them.

WASHINGTON BUREAU THE OMARA BER.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 6. Hen. George O. Jones of New York, chairman of the antional greenback committee, is the latest to give an enthusiastic endorsement of the new silver coinage law. Mr. Jones said to your correspondent this afternoon: "Since about April 5 last, when the price of silver began to advance, the price of wheat has gone up 15 cents per bushel, corn about 12 cents per bushel, cotton between 1 and 2 cents per pound and butter and cheese. in nearly the same proportion. The average wheat crop of this country during the past fifteen years has been about 450,000,000 bushels. The average corn crop for ten years has been about 4,500,000,000 oushels, the cotton crop about 17,000,000 pounds, the butter product about 12,000,000 rounds and the cheese product about 18,000. 000 pounds. This advance would have amounted to over $400,000,000 if it had come in time to cover the whole of last year's product of these five articles. The advance in the price of silver during that time has been 18 cents per ounce, which, when applied to the 50,000,000 ounces of silver annually produced in this country, would amount to only $0,000,000. By those figures you will see that the farmers have been benefitted forty times as much as the silver miners by this advance. Yet I am told that a paper called the Financier, which claims to represent the farmers' alliance, is complaining of the silver lobby securing the passage of the silver bill."

"Do you think the advance will hold?" was

"Yes," said Mr. Jones, "if the present bil is honestly carried out and a sufficient volume of greenbacks issued to meet the require ments for the money among American producers. Silver alone nor silver and gold combined will not meet one-quarter such requirements, especially for the next few years, during which all oustanding national bank notes must be retired."
"Do you believe the present silver bill will be faithfully carried out?" "That depends on the president and secre-try of the treasury. I have not seen either of them since the bill passed, but am told that both have said it will be, and it is sincerely to be hoped for the sake of American pro-ducers that such will be the case. ducers that such will be the case

"Do you expect a large attendance at the national greenback conference to be held at From present indications there will be a fair number present. Of course it is called and will be held as a conference of national greenbackers, who will then and there pre greenhackers, who will then and there preserve the great fundamental principles and name for which they have so long and housestly labored. I do not expect much time will be spent on the history or theories of money. Its history is now generally understood by most well informed people, and the theory of greenback money issued by the government for value received by the government has been decided to be constitutional money. The various theories now being put forward for issuing paper money being put forward for issuing paper money on any other basis are not p actical and neve will be emacted into law. Their tendency is to retard the day when paper money shall pring forward a new and better civilization

CENSUS BULLETIN ON STATE DEBTS. A special bulletin was issued tonight from the census office showing the indebtedness of states in 1880 and 1890. The bonded debt of Nebraska in 1880 was $499,267, while in 1890 it is nothing. There was no floating debt in 1880, nor is there in 1890, nor are there any each and funds on hand for these years. In 1880 Nebraska's net debt was $409,367, while for 1890 no debt is given. Iowa in 1880 had $300,000 bonded debt, but she has none in 1890. In 1880 the state had a loating debt of $342,428 and in 1890 she has floating debt of $284,823. Iowa's cash and unds on hand in 1890 is $4,633,857, against 3,591,853 in 1880. Her excess of assets over debt in 1890 is $4,349,034, against $2,494,234 in

THE WILSON ORIGINAL PACKAGE BILL. The original package bill was before the house again today on the conference report, which recommended the adoption of the Wilson bill without the change of the dot to an "i," or the cross to a "t," As soon as the report was presented Judge Reed of Iowa moved the previous question on its adoption. Mr. Oates of Alabama sought, but in vain, to get an opportunity for discussion and present certain propositions in the nature of a compromise to the house upon which to get instructions for a further compromise. There was a roll call, the previous question was was a roll call, the previous question was ordered and after forty minutes talk, which was almost entirely by Judge Reed and Mr. Oates, the vote was taken and the Wilson bill passed by a vote of 120 to 96. The democrats almost to a many order in approximant to the bill and the man voted in opposition to the bill and they were joined by a handful of republicans, who were opposed to the extreme stringency of the measure. Said one of the latter when asked why he opposed the report: "The bill was a most remarkable one and the objection to it were pretty fully set forth when the subject was in the house before. It proposes to have the police regulations of a state, and any that may enact, attach liquors the moment they cross the borders of a state. They may therefore be made liable to confise not merely when offered for sale or in a cellar of a man who has imported them for his per sonal use and that of his family, as admittesonal use and that of his hamly, as admitted by Judge Reed, but, if language means any-thing, even when in transit, though not des-tined for a point within the state. Thus a keg of beer shipped from Chicago to a point keg of beer shipped from Chicago to in Montana would be subject to th in Montana would be subject to the police laws of the intervening states through which it would have to pass, and, if these laws authorized confiscation, would reader it linbic to be poured on the ground in lowa or any other state on the way. Such legislation is not merely unwise, but in my judgment will not be uple id for a moment by the courts. I want to see a law encetors it is not merely unwise, but in my judgment will not be uple id for a moment by the courts. I want to see a law enacted on this subject, but I want eac which will affori some practical relief, not one written by a zenlot who can-not look to the effect of the possi-bility of the enforcement of that which he has framed. This was the reason fer my want to see a law enacted on this subject, yote, but there are others almost equally strong, and I cannot understand how gentlemen who have large dairy interests in their districts in states where eleomargarine is prohibited voted for this bill. The house sub-stitute afforded them a protection which the Wilson bill does not, and the adoption of the conference report leaves oleomargarine, grade oils and a host of things in a position to take advantage of the Leise decision, with no hope of any remedial legislation as far as they are concerned by the present congress. Take my word for it," he continued, "bethe second session assembles will hear a protest against action far louder than that which followed the announcement of the de cision of the supreme court. This action es-tablishes a precedent, one which other interests which desire like action will not be slow to take advantage of, and you may now look for a flood of suggestions for like legislation which will only serve to point out the lack of wisdom of this. In its effect, therefore, it is as far reaching if not more so than any meas-ure which has been acred on at this session, now famous for the important subjects dealt The member who thus spoke voiced fairly the scatiments of the republicans op-posing the Wilson bill. All of them have but they desired legislation, but they desired it along well known paths, not measures which, aiming to accomplish too

CANNOT BE TOO CAREFUL. The necessity for accuracy in legislation at all stages was demonstrated by an incident in congress today. Last April a bill was passed establishing a land office at Lewiston, Mont. In the course of events the act went before the commissioner of the general land office to be executed. That official discovered that the name of the town was Lewistown, and that he was not authorized to establish an of-fice at that place. In this view the secretary of the interior concurred and today the difficulty was remedied by the passage of a joint resolution changing the spelling of the name from Lewiston to Lewistown. The consider-ation of the resolution afforded an opportunity for the usual criticism and complaint of STRUBLE ON THE ORIGINAL PACKAGE.

Representative Strable of the Sioux City, In., district was one of the staunch advocates of the Wilson bill, and since his is a prohibiof the Wilson bill, and since his is a prohibi-tion state he has given the subject close at-tention. He said to your correspondent this merring: "President Harrison will sign the bill very promptly—as promptly as he did the salver bill—for he is in therough accord with the proposition to so amend the interstate commerce law that prohibition states may have prohibition despite any interference by the operation of the interstate commerce clause given us by the constitution. I was a law in favor of the amendment by a large majority and it will cut a prominent figure in the approach in the approach. ing campaign and will do away with any ex-cuse whatever for running the prohibition candidates against republican nominees for congress. The republicans have given them this amendment and it would be a gross in justice for the prohibitionists to put candidates in opposition to the regular republican nominees. There was some semblance of ex-cuse for the prohibitionists in placing their undidates in the field against republicans be are the adoption of the amendment to the in erstate commerce law, as they held that a epublican supreme court has everthrown the eatures of a law which permitted the states o enjoy prohibition. Now a republican con-ress has come to the rescue with all the legstation necessary for the states to help en-orce the strictest prohibition laws. The amperance foils know they have friends only in the republican ranks,"

THE PRESIDENT AND BLAINE CONFER. The telegrams from Cape May regarding he conference between the president and Mr. Blaine on the reciprocity question have excited public interest here today, and the report that they had decided upon a line of policy for the administration with reference to the tariff bill is generally accepted as true. The president has always agreed with Mr. Blaine on the main points of the issue which the latter has invoked with of much courage and ability although he ha so much courage and ability, although he has not been so sanguine as to the degree of advantage that might be gained by the United States from reciprocity treatles with the American republics and the Spanish colonies. This, however, is due more to a difference in temperament than a difference of opinion. Mr. Blaine is an optimist by nature, while the president is not. It is true also that the president has recognized the political advantages and the popularity of the propositions Mr. Blaine has copularity of the propositions Mr. Blame has advanced. There has been no suggestion concerning legislation for years that has awakened so much interest or so much gen-eral approval among all classes of people irrespective of politics. The president has watched the development of public opinion very closely and is too good a politician to everiook the effects of its adoption upon the ortunes of his party. At the same time he has regretted that Mr. Blaine's propositions may not been approved and accepted by the republican leaders in congress, particularly those in charge of the tariff bill. For some weeks he has been holding interviews with them with the purpose of finding some round of compromise, some method of secur ing the advantages Mr. Blaine seeks that will ground of compromimeet with the support of the McKinley faction. It is an open secret that the Pierce amendment to the tariff, which is a modified form of the Blaine proposition, was intro-duced after consultation with the president if not at his suggestion. That Mr. Blaine invited to Cape May by the president to discuss the situation there is no doubt, and may be announced my highest authority ordially accepts the Pierce amendment as quite as good and equally as effective as his own. The president and his secretary of state are therefore of one mind upon this state are therefore of one mind upon this subject and will use their united influence to secure the amendment of the tariff bill so that the duty on sugar shall not be thrown away but utilized in diplomatic negotiations so as to secure the free admission of our breadstuffs, provisionary other regular modules into the ions and other peculiar products into the sugar growing countries, which constitute sugar growing countries, which constitute nine-tenths of the area and population south of the Gulf of Mexico and the Rio Grande, It is believed that the president has de-cided to address a message to concided to address a message to con-gress on this subject at an early day.

be likely to reject it under ordinary circumstances, but they would not dare to do so if the president should take a firm position in its support and announce it to be the policy of his administration. Kelsey has a wife and several children and has occupied the pulpit in the Congregational church in this city for about four years,

Attention was first attracted to the scandalous actions of the minister and his in-amorata by the neighbors. Various indis-erest actions were noted and the affair be-came so scandalous that a watch was finally placed on the couple. This resulted in the discovery of Mr. Kelsey and the girt in a vacuant house last Friday night. Several greatiemen surrounded the house and inter-cepted the guilty parties as they were leav-ing the building. An explanation was asked for and the reverend gentleman had the as-surance to say that he was preparing the young lady for the teachers' institute. Prohibition Losing Ground. The Bre.]—The third party temperance workers, Smith and Huckins, have been in this city for a week talking and singing to public is to say very little about third party prohibition, while on the side they are doing everything for the third party movement they can. They ignore the question before the people and are very profuse in picturing to the young ladies the awfulness of marrying, so long as the high license law is in force in Nebraska. Prof. Bowlers of Ohio, on the other hand, in an address before the Sunday school convention of this county, said that many good people expect the millevium in all its glory upon the advent of prohibition, but such was not the case. He further said that home should be made so attractive that the young men would not seek their companionship in the saloon. Prohibition is losing ground in Johnson county.

Metal Schedule

WASHINGTON, August 6.- In the house tolay Mr. Reed of lown presented the conferace report on the original package bill, The report leaves the bill exactly as it ussed the senate and is dissented from by Mr. Outes of Alabama, one of the conferees.] After debate the conference report was adopted—yeas, 120; nays, 96. The house then went into committee of the whole on the general deficiency bill, but with-out disposing of the bill the committee rose and the house ad ourned.

Senate. Washington, August 6 .- After routine ousiness of little importance the senate proceeded to consideration of the tariff, the pendng question being on Mr. Morgan's amendment in regard to iron ore. Mr. Gorman said the metal schedule was perhaps the most important one in the bill, and the paragraph under discussion practically the key to the whole schedule. He spoke at great length in favor of a reduction in the duty on Hessemer ore, having in the course of his remarks colloquies with Messrs. Sherman, Cullom, Spooner, Blair, and other small crowds. Their aim while speaking in duction of duty on foreign Bessenger ores senators. Mr. Gorman said with the rethe result would be that steel ships could be illt as cheaply in Baltimore as on the Clyde With that advantage, he said, the prediction of the great republican secretary of state would be fulfilled.

Mr. Frye said the i secretary of state had been quoted severa times in the sonate as arguing that the McKinley bill did not in any of its features open up markets. Now the secretary of state was dealing in that letter entirely with foreign and not home markets. "I do not understand that in a protective tariff there is an especial paroose to open up foreign markets, It is create of purpose of a protective tariff to create a home market, which is worth infinitely more than any foreign market, and that was undoubt-edly the understanding of the secretary of state, and not and not a purpose to reflect at all on the McKinley bill except so far as that there was nothing in it intended to open up foreign markets, and he desired to have something put in it in the way of reciprocity, by which foreign markets might be opened up." Mr. Gray spoke of the "remarkable gloss out by Mr. Frye on Blaine's letter," and he went on to read extracts from the letter to show that Mr. Frye's interpretation of it was not a natural or correct one.

Frye stated, in reply to Mr. Gray, that Blaine had criticised the bill in simply one regard—the provision making sugar free In his judgment Blaine had criticised it be In his judgment Blaine had criticised it because the free sugar provision was not accompanied with a provision that would open up the markets of South American countries to the products of 'American farms. There was no other criticism made by Blaine on the McKinley bill, and he himself symmatized strongly with that criticism.

Mr. Gibson denied the statement that Blaine's latter referred to spreas along and Blaine's letter referred to sugar alone, and asserted that it! referred also to hides and wool and ores. The secretary of state stood committed, Mr. Gibson said, to a broad policy of reciprocity with The South American and Central American states.

Mr. Morgan withdrew his amendment in order to allow Mr. Gorman to offer an amendto driew Mr. Gorman to offer an amend-ment reducing the duty on iron ore from 75 to 50 cents per ton, Mr. Plumb moyed to amend the amend-ment by making the rate 10 cents. Mr. Gorman accepted the amendment.

The amendment was rejected-yeas, 21; The paragraph was then agreed to as re-Without disposing of the amendment the senute adjourned.

A Great Rac - at Manawa.

Ned Hanlan, the world's famous oarsman of Toronto, Canada, and Jack Teemer, the champion of America, of Pittsburg, Pa., will row a mile race, two best out of three, at Lake Manawa next Sanday afternoon, for a purse of $750, hung up by the Manawa motor line. The two scullers called at THE BEE office last evening, and agreed upon the sporting editor as referee and arranged all the minor affairs of the race. This is an event that should certainly attract a large crowd to the lake. Ned Hanlan is probably the best known rower in the whole world, and has rowed in every country on the face of the globe, winning 147 races out of 160 rowed. He is a model athlete, a handsome man, edu-cated and refined, and has amassed a fortune of a quarter of a million with his oars. He has beaten Teemer in five races out of seven Teomer is an oarsman second in renown only to Hanlan. He has beaten every native only to Hanlan. He has beaten every native sculler—who—has—been—pitted—against him, and in addition to this extraordinary record, has beaten the great Hanlan, himself, once for $5,000, at Toronto, in August—1887, and again at Pleasure—Island, between Albany and Troy, N. Y. in 1886. He is now in superb condition and feels confident of downing Ned on Sunday next. Teemer—safa—to Tue Bee man last night that Gandaur—can not only have any kind of a race—he wants out of Hanlan, but that he, himself, is not only willing, but assious to go against the St. Louis champion in a three—mile—race—for from $1,000 to $5,000 a side. from $1,000 to $5,000 a side.

On Saturday afternoon Teemer rows a two mile race against the four-oared crew of the Council Bluffs club for a purse of $500. There will also be a tub race, with seven entries, a number of swimming matches and an exhibit tion of walking on the water. A like pro-gramme will also be arranged for Sunday. Haniaa and Jake Gaudaur, are still talking of their proposed match and the chances of one being ratified begins to look probable Hallan certainly seems to be more willing while Gaudaur's anxiousness appears to be rather distant, as he apparently desires to rest on his laurels won last week. There are several reasons why that will add additional interest to the match. Both men will find the major part of the stakes themselves. Secondly, there is a bitter feeling against between the men, although Hanlan denies it, and thirdly, they desire to wipe out an old gradge of three years ago. Hanlan has been living like a king for ever three years and Hanlan certainly seems to be more living like a king for over three years and has never done may real hard training in that time. Gaudaur on the other hand is rowing at his best now and many of his admirers be-lieve that today he is the champion of the world. Hanlan'a legion of atherents still shoutly claim, however, that Jake isn't in it with the Toronto man, and it does really look as if Gaudaur is not half as anxious for a

The Woesof a Polygamist.

Salt Lake, Utah, August 6 .- [Special Tele rram to Tue Bue. |- James H. Jeakins is an iged Mormon who has been availing himself of the privileges of his religion until he ran against a snag in the way of deputy marshals. Yesterday morning Bennett and Redfield went out for Jenkins, but Jeannette Jenkins, ais aged and legal wife, came to the door and leclared that he was not at home. Three or four small children were in the house, and a baby five weeks old was in the old lady's arms. To a question by the deputies, the aged natron, who has crossed the boundaries of three score years, replied that they were all hers. This of course silenced the marshal out a pair of old man's shoes caught his eye, and he commenced an investigation under the and he commenced an investigation under the bed and in every possible place he could think of, but no Jenkins. At last a rip in the carpet was noticed, and pulling it to one side he found a trap to one side he found a trap door. It was only a minute's work to open the trap and haul out old man Jenkins, to-gether with the genuine mother of the baby that the old ways had only only and hat the old woman had endoavored to palm off as her own. Yesterday afternoon Jendins was brought before Commissioner on the charge of adultery, and the avidence of this legal and plural wife being plain and direct, he was bound over to the grand jury in bonds of $1,000, and his plural wife as a witness in the sum of $1,00. witness in the sum of $500.

The Florence Saloon War. FLORENCE, Neb., August 6,-To the Editor of THE BEE: The saloutkeepers of Florence have overloaded the market this year and now, like the famous cuts of the Green Isle, they are in a deadly fight. But so long as they confine their mad efforts to cating and masticating each other the average citizen will bid them godspeed and devoutly pray for a fight to the finish. But when your correspondents leads the general public to believe that any reputable citizens are engaged in this fraternal warfare they do the community an injustice,

You have at Omaha a convert of the late lamented Francis Murphy who claims to represent the "law and order citizens of Florence." Instead of this, as hearly as diligent inquiry has developed, this fellow is employed by four men—one a Florence exmayor, one a Florence saloonkeeper and two notorious ex-saloonkeepers of Blair. With such a law and order combination is it any wonder that eyen the hoodlums of Florence should feel constrained at the council house and literally plaster this law and order attor ney with rotten eggs in order that the atmos-phere of the hall might be at least purified? Your paper also does an injustice to Mr. Eller of Blair, who is now city afterney of Florence. True, he defended a Mrs. Brown, who was in court charged with the infraction of some state statute, and under the impresssion that she was on trial for a violation some city ordinance, and being defended by Mr. Eller, one of the councilmen promptly introduced a resolution to remove when the whole matter was explained in open ccureil session the resolution was maini-maisly tabled. Now, Mr. Editor, let lorse all your local war dogs and intensify if possi-ble this saloon war, but in the future don't attempt to mix decont people with it.

whose ideas as to the success of the marriage relation have undergone a decided change in the past forty-eight hours, and there is a farmhouse almost within the shadow of Belloyne college where domestic happiness is a sad misnomer and marital felicity will hereafter be a thing unknown.

The changes that have occurred within the past few days have been as sudden as they were unexpected, and they are directly traccable to the creatic movements of a myaterious woman in black, who for the present shall remain nameless. Last Monday afternoon this mysterious personne, clad in black and heavily veiled, alled at the office of Slabaugh, Lane & Rush, n the New York Lafe building, and mildly stated that she wanted to make a deposition. She was informed that it would not be possibie to take her deposition in a case unless by order of the court and both sides were present, but that she might make affidavit to anything she wished. After demurring for a while she finally consented, and recited the following story:

Although now diving at Minden, Ia., she

Although now living at Minden, In., she was formerly engaged in the family of a well known Sarpy county resident as a domestic. While working there in that espacity she made the acquaintance of the other resident of Sarpy county above referred to, who is not only one of the oldest and most successful farmers of that section, but is likewise the head of an interesting family. For the present it is sufficient to call him farms, altrough ent it is sufficient to call him Harris, although that is not his name.

According to the story of this mysterious

According to the story of this mysterious "she," "the woman in black," or "the veiled lady," Harris visited her frequently and represented that not only was he a single man but he was likewise heart whole, and he proceeded to lay siege to the citidel of heraffections. How could it be otherwise than that he was successful! His tuck exceeded that of the wonderful four-time winner, and the besieged capitalisted. The affant declares that their intimacy un-duly ripened, and when she finally suggested a speedy marriage she found that Harris had ocea a happy busband for lo, these many years. This knowledge was of course depressions at a still it caused no change in the relations of the pair, as she declared that she still loved him. It so happened that at length a child him, lead to her and in due course of time was born to her, and in due course of time another, and then the woman went to Minden. Now comes the part of the story that yet emains to be explained. From the time of er departure to Minden until her appear ance last Monday in as Omitha law office, a great change had apparently taken place, which she did not seem to deem it worth while to explain. She said that she wanted to make affidavit to all of these things and to the fact that Harris had also paid more attention to a married woman of his acquaintance than a neighborly these statements in black and white, and then she very positively swore to them. Slabaugh, Lane & Rush concluded that they did not want to handle the case, and the weman was sent across the corridor to the ofther of E. T. Cook where the affidivit was at last secured. Then the mysterious black dress and well with their still more ous wearer quietly departed and have appeared an more in that role.

The following day Mrs. Harris appeared at the office of Mr. Cook, and with her was a woman who bere a stricting resemblance in form and carriage to the heavily veiled visitor of the day before. They produced the affidavit and wanted to get a divorce. Mrs. Harris was righteously indignant but her companion was inclined to silence. They at length departed, and the next heard of the case was yesterday. That was Mr. Harris' day, and he appeared on the scene of action. He said that his wife had left him and also proposed to sue for a divorce. He declared that he knew nothing of the woman in black, but he was sure that it was a deal of some kind to break up his fourily.

He stoutly denied having had any improper relations with anybody as charged, and Mr. Cook believed him. Cook had known him for thirty-five years, and what could be do but believe him when he so positively asserted his innocence? That only added to the mystery of the case, and there was no explanation to be even.

planation to be given.

This is the condition of the case at present, and new developments are being awaited. The theory of the few who have heard of the case is that it is a cut and dried scheme before the case is that it is a cut and dried scheme before. tween the voiled woman and Harris to in-duce his wife to get a divorce, but his friends will not entertain the idea, and it remains to be explained why the woman has made a sworm statement of her past relations with
